

ZEBRA IMAGING APPOINTS DAVE PERRY AS EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Former Avocent Corporation Executive to Lead Commercial Market Development and Strategic Partnership Initiatives for 3-D Visualization Applications

AUSTIN, Texas – Mar. 9, 2009 – Zebra Imaging, Inc., the world’s foremost provider of holographic display and visualization technologies, today appointed Dave Perry as the company’s executive vice president, commercial markets and strategic partnerships. Perry is chartered with developing the principle strategies that will guide the company’s evolution into emerging commercial markets while building strategic partnerships to accelerate company growth.

Perry comes to Zebra Imaging from Avocent Corporation (NASDAQ: AVCT), the leading worldwide provider of data center infrastructure management systems, where he served as executive vice president and general manager of the company’s management systems division. During his tenure, Perry managed the company’s $500M business unit which developed software and hardware-based solutions for management of efficient large-scale datacenters. Prior to Avocent, Perry served in a variety of sales, marketing and business development roles for the $11 billion semiconductor manufacturer, Texas Instruments.

“Dave has directly contributed to scaling the businesses of world class companies and I’m thrilled to have him on our leadership team” said Al Wargo, CEO of Zebra Imaging. “Dave will bring tremendous energy, focus and opportunity to Zebra Imaging as we enter our next phase of exciting growth.”

Zebra Imaging designs, develops and manufactures full color, 3-D holographic display systems, for a variety of 3-D visualization applications for both government and commercial markets. The company’s unique 3-D holographic technology provides a robust, cost-effective and accurately-detailed medium to present plans and designs in a true 360-degree viewpoint without requiring special goggles, glasses or other eyewear.

“The opportunity to work alongside such a talented and innovative group of professionals is a true honor in itself,” said Dave Perry. “I look forward to helping elevate Zebra Imaging to the next stage of its growth and building relationships to ensure the company maintains an elite status as a leading 3-D visualization technology company.”

About Dave Perry

With more than 30 years of high-tech experience in developing and executing multi-channel sales, marketing and business development strategies, Dave Perry joined Zebra Imaging as executive vice president, commercial markets and strategic partnerships. Most recently, Dave was executive vice president and general manager, management systems division of Avocent Corporation where he provided strategic leadership to an 800 + person worldwide organization. Prior to Avocent, Dave spent 19 years with Dallas-based, Texas Instruments/Acer where he served as vice president of sales for the Acer America commercial division. Dave also served as a cryptographic systems engineer and master technical instructor for the United States Air Force. Dave attended Harvard Business School’s Advanced Management Program, and also holds an MBA from Hardin-Simmons University and a BS in Education from Texas State University.

About Zebra Imaging

Founded in 1996 and headquartered in Austin, Texas, Zebra Imaging, Inc. designs, develops and manufactures state-of-the-art 3-D holographic displays for government, military and commercial markets including architecture, engineering and construction (AEC). Zebra Imaging has developed the world’s most dynamic 3-D visual communication medium that is portable, scalable, intuitively-understood and easily viewable to help customers turn design data into reality. Customers include Federal and Department of Defense agencies; leading architecture, design and planning firms; civilian topographic agencies and various groups who need to clearly and effortlessly demonstrate sophisticated 3-D data in a comprehensive, durable and portable medium. For more information visit: www.zebraimaging.com.

Media Contact:

Travis Williams
Lois Paul & Partners
(512) 638-5315
travis_williams@lpp.com

###